SAINT OF THE WEEK:
St Charles
of Sezze
January 18th
Born in 1613 near Rome, Saint Charles was inspired by the lives of saints and became a Franciscan. He said the Lord put in his heart a determination to become a lay brother with a great desire to be poor and beg for alms for God. He served many duties and adopted the spirit of Saint Francis. His superior ordered him, when serving as a porter, to give food only to travelling friars who came to the door. Saint Charles obeyed but alms to the friars decreased. He convinced his superior to resume giving goods to all who asked at the door and, in so doing, alms to the friars increased. Saint Charles wrote several spiritual books. Having a deep spiritual understanding, the then dying Pope Clement IX called Saint Charles to his bedside for a blessing. Saint Charles cooperated with God’s will and was captivated by His majesty and His great mercy for all of us. Canonized in 1959 by Pope John XXIII.

A Reminder From the Archdiocesan Office of Worship, as reported in the “Catholic Sentinel”:
“During the Our Father, only the priest should pray with hands extended, not the lay faithful, according to norms in the United States. The holding of hands during the Our Father is not envisioned in the Roman Missal. While the posture has been adopted by families with small children, it should not be considered the norm. Some people may feel uncomfortable if it is imposed on them.”

The Baptism of Our Lord is one of the four celebrations of the Theophany (the revelation of God to man) prior to beginning his ministry. These four celebrations are Christmas, the Epiphany, the Baptism of Our Lord, and the Marriage Feast of Cana. Since God had John baptize people in the Jordan river for the forgiveness of their sins, it begs the question as to why should Jesus, who is without sin, be baptized? John, himself, is perplexed by Jesus’ request. The answer Jesus gives is opaque and somewhat confusing; nevertheless, it was the Divine Will that made it imperative that this event should take place.

This motive is obliquely addressed in today’s Gospel. While very brief, today’s Gospel employs several actions to reveal God’s plan. First, John proclaims that there is one greater than he who is to come. This person will give them not just forgiveness but also the Spirit of God and fire. The second action that takes place is after Jesus was baptized and the heavens are open and a dove descends. This is extremely important for two reasons. First, Christ foreshadows the humanity of man being cleansed of his sins -- especially original sin. Secondly, the vision of the heavens being open shows us that God is no longer separated from man. This event also prefigures the renting of the Temple Veil during the crucifixion of the Christ which permanently destroys the separation of heaven and earth. Finally, the descent of the Holy Spirit upon Jesus, accompanied by the vocal affirmation by the God as to Jesus’ Divine parentage, is another theophanic gesture to assuage any doubts by those present.

The degree of importance of this baptism is reflected in the variety of readings that are presented prior to the Gospel. Both readings from the prophet Isaiah indicate the great transformation that is destined to take place with the introduction of Jesus. He will not meet the earthly expectations; rather, the Christ is to bridge the divide created by sin and restore the dignity and grandeur that Adam and Eve lost. Likewise, the second readings, the Letter of Paul to Titus or the reading from the Acts of the Apostles, affirm the benefits mankind received from Jesus through his role as the Messiah and redeemer of all. God's desire to restore order and righteousness that had been lost through our disobedience and pride is evidenced by Christ’s obedience and humility. This new stature is witnessed in Christ’s baptism and emphasized for posterity in today’s reading from the Acts of the Apostle.

Today, Holy Mother Church entreats us to follow the example of our Lord and brother. She reminds us that we are part of the Divine Family through the Lord’s baptism and our own. United with him, we are pledged to accomplish the Father’s Will. With this special calling comes a greater responsibility to “martyr” ourselves as witnesses in order that we can grow to the stature to which we are called and receive the reward that awaits us. We, too, await the Father’s voice from heaven that says, “You are my beloved son; with you I am well pleased.”
