Church Maintenance

The years of winds, rain, hurricanes, etc. have compromised the strength of the stained glass windows on the south side of the church. When I arrived, there were cracks in several of them, including the south main door and cry room. This has continued to get worse with the windows arching and bowing in by several inches. We are addressing the issue or risk losing the windows by having them fall in and/or be damaged beyond repair. I know it sounds quite dramatic, but it’s unfortunately the reality. The upper panels were removed and repaired in-studio in 1994; they do not need further work! We are planning to have twenty-four panels re-set and strengthened so that we can hopefully see another thirty years! The original maker’s son and company will be executing the work; Cavallini Glass out of San Antonio, Texas. I will keep you informed as to the work. My hope is that all will be done by Christmas. The windows will be removed and taken back to their studio for recasting. Plywood will replace the missing panels until they return. Thanks for your understanding.
