A Reflection of the Gospel from Living Liturgy

2019: Today's reading is one such where Jesus the Son is speaking, making reference to the Spirit of truth and to the Father. As such, this is one of many texts that church fathers used to develop the theology of the Trinity. And that theology developed over centuries with many roadblocks, hurdles, and missteps, but also many advances, developments, and clarifications along the way. One conclusion from the theological developments is that the doctrine of the Trinity is sophisticated, subtle, and worthy of reflection.

In this passage, we have the "Spirit of truth" rather than the more standard or classical, Holy Spirit. And the Spirit of truth has a particular role, which is to guide the disciples to truth, speaking what is heard from the Father and the Son. The Spirit of truth also glorifies the Son. He takes from the Son, who has everything the Father has, and declares it to the disciples.

The many images of Trinity and each of them incomplete in one way or another contribute to a fundamental challenge in discussing Trinity. Ultimately, it is best to go back to Scripture itself, and let that inform our understanding, which we do today by reading from the Gospel of John.
