On Tuesday, all of us who are able to vote can exercise a key right and a key responsibility; that is to vote. It is an exciting (or is it interesting?) time for me, as I will be able to vote in a presidential election in the USA for the first time. I am sure that all of us, whether we are voting for the first time or if we have voted in many elections, are weighing matters very carefully. It is, of course, not the task of the Church to tell folks who to vote for, as Pope Francis has frequently remarked, but it is the task of the Church to encourage and help us to think and pray about how we might vote, especially as to what matters we should consider with our choice.

To this end, the US Bishops have issued a document called “Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship”. It is a very detailed document, full of things to reflect upon that can help us in informing what we will do. However, it is also forty-two pages long! You can look at it on the USCCB website. To make things a bit easier, we gave out a shorter guide to what Catholics might think about and pray about in voting last weekend and this article that you are reading also (hopefully!) might be of assistance. It also helped me, in that putting down on paper some reflections, helped me to clarify things a bit! So, here are some thoughts…

The first thing that we can do is, of course, to pray. After all, we often pray when perhaps we have choices or decisions to make, and voting is really no different. We are both American citizens, but also disciples of Jesus Christ. When we enter areas of social life or even of politics, we do not leave our faith behind, like leaving an umbrella at the door to be picked up again later on! Our faith is at the very center of who we are: our values, our hopes and aspirations, our very life. We must remember that there is a constitutional separation of religion and state, but that is intended to prevent one religion being a state religion, not to prevent religion being a part of the discussions and dialogue that is a feature of any open democracy. As Pope Francis recently and passionately stated: “if indeed the just ordering of society and of the state is a central responsibility of politics, the Church cannot and must not remain on the sidelines…” (Encyclical Letter, On the Joy of the Gospel, n. 183)

Having said all this, what sort of things can help us in our prayer to give some focus and insight? The document of the US Bishops seeks to help us in this prayerful discernment. It is not to tell us “for whom or against whom to vote”, but rather “to help Catholics form their consciences in accordance with God’s truth.” The document suggests four important considerations:

- Inform ourselves about what the Church teaches about issues affecting public policy and, crucially, also why. This is part of being a disciple of Jesus Christ: to know what we believe and hold to be the truth and why, and also to share this good news with others.
- Realize that everyone is called to participate in political life, for example by exercising the right and the responsibility to vote. In fact, in our Catholic tradition, responsible citizenship is seen as a virtue and participation in political life is a moral obligation.
- We can explore how the Church can help us to speak about political and social issues that are so important and dear to us (such as healthcare, immigration, social and economic justice, discrimination, the dignity of the human person, promoting the sanctity of life from conception to natural death, promoting family life etc. etc.)? From this knowledge and understanding, we can then develop true prudence. Prudence, for Christians, is a virtue that enables us to discern the true good in any circumstance and then to choose the right means of achieving it. So, for example in voting, we almost always have to make a choice between various matters and can even face a tough dilemma. Prudence will help us to make the right choice.
- What does the Church say about the great treasure that is Catholic social teaching in the public square? As Catholics, we do have four, fundamental moral principles that help us to be prudent and to make the right choice, whether it is in an everyday situation to assessing political candidates and therefore how we cast our vote. They are:

  I. The dignity of every human person and that all life is sacred from the moment of conception to the moment of natural death: we believe in a culture of life and we work to defend and to promote it!
  II. “Subsidiarity”, that is the human person is not just an individual, but that we are social beings: there is a common good and how we act affects all. Human development takes place in relationship with others. We see this in groups such as the family or many local associations. The principle of subsidiarity also reminds us that smaller or local groups should not be overwhelmed by larger ones and that local groups are often the best placed ones to deal with local issues.
  III. Human dignity is respected and the common good is fostered only when fundamental human rights are protected and basic responsibilities are met.
  IV. Solidarity: our shared human dignity and nature and the equality of all that is to be promoted and protected (especially the vulnerable).

Finally, please do remember that the Day Chapel is open every day (including Tuesday, Election Day!) if you would like some quiet space to pray before voting. Perhaps we could also spend a few minutes praying as a family before work or school on this key day.

God bless,

Fr. Anthony

November 10th is the feast day of Pope St. Leo the Great (400—461 AD)

Pope Leo is one of two popes who are remembered with the title “the great” (the other being Pope St. Gregory the Great). It’d be impossible to do his story justice but, in a way, his legacy is felt by us whenever we think about Jesus. During the Council of Chalcedon, he settled a major controversy: what does it mean when we say Jesus is both God and a human being? Some said that Jesus didn’t really have a human nature or that His divine nature somehow undermined His human nature.

That actually is a pretty big deal. Later, St. Gregory Nazianzen reminded us that Jesus’ human nature is the only reason we have any hope of being redeemed in Christ and, therefore, have any hope at all in going to heaven. “What has not been assumed [our human nature assumed by Jesus] has not been redeemed”.

Leo saw that this seemingly little thing was actually everything. It was actually what John’s Gospel was telling us when it said that in Jesus is “the Word” that “became flesh and dwelt among us” (John 1:14). Leo’s words at the Council were so convicting that the bishops acclaimed that “Peter has spoken through Leo!” That’s really what bishops and popes hope to do: to proclaim Jesus and to help us understand Him in the world we live in today. The next time you think about Heaven, remember that it happened precisely because God became a human being just like us, truly God and truly man...it was Leo who helped us see that!

Is there a place in the Church for me?

About the book “Gay and Catholic”:

In this first book from an openly lesbian and celibate Catholic, widely published writer and blogger Eve Tushnet recounts her spiritual and intellectual journey from atheism to faithful Catholicism and shows how gay Catholics can love and be loved while adhering to Church teaching.

About Eve:

Eve Tushnet lives in Washington, DC, where she was raised somewhere between atheism and Reform Judaism. She cofounded her high school’s gay/straight alliance and entered the Catholic Church in 1998, during her sophomore year at Yale University. She is a freelance writer and a recovering alcoholic. In 2010, she was profiled in the New York Times “Beliefs” column.

Tushnet blogs regularly at The American Conservative and Patheos. Her work has been published by the Atlantic, Weekly Standard, Commonweal, and First Things, and she has written for the Washington Post “On Faith” blog and the New York Times “Room for Debate.” She has spoken on being gay and Catholic at Carnegie-Mellon University, Georgetown University, Princeton University, Fordham, among others. She has also addressed a group of campus ministers in the Diocese of Pittsburgh and spoken with Interfaith Voices, a syndicated public radio show. Tushnet contributed an essay on gay Catholic life to the 2008 anthology Faith at the Edge, and has essays forthcoming in books from Fordham University Press and Notre Dame University Press.

The Food Pantry served 113 households in October. This included 243 adults and 185 children. As always the generosity of St. Ambrose parishioners is deeply appreciated and helpful. The ongoing need is great and all food and monetary contributions are much appreciated as we strive to feed the hungry in our community.

Prayer for Veterans
Heavenly Father, on this day, help us remember those who gave of themselves to keep us safe and secure. Enkindle in our consciences a desire to serve those who served their country selflessly. Give us the grace to aid those who have given aid and protection to us and others both here and overseas. Let us never forget the causes for which they fought or the bravery they showed on the battlefield. May we be always be mindful of those who paid the price for our freedom, just as your Son gave his life to free us from the bondage of sin. Amen.

Sacristan Ministry

Like altar serving, being a Sacristan is a very beneficial way to help out your church community, and an active way to participate in Mass. Sacristans perform the following duties:

- Setting up the church before Mass. Typically, sacristans arrive at church half hour before anyone else. They light the candles, arrange the books, ready the linens and basically perform a little simple organizing before Mass begins.
- Prepare the Holy Eucharist for the celebration of the Mass. This includes readying the wine, water and bread and putting them in place for the start of Mass.
- Coordinate all Mass participants, make sure Lectors, Eucharistic Ministers and Altar Servers are ready.
- Cleaning the holy materials after Mass in the sacristy.
- Before the sacristan leaves the church everything is set back in its place and secured.

Decide if this is something you think you can do. Setting the table of the Lord is a ministry that is essential for the Mass. We are in need of sacristans for all Masses. Our schedules are flexible so after training you can let us know what Mass works for you. Our schedule is posted ahead several months at a time for your convenience. Please contact the Sacristan Coordinator Pat Rayball 708-9615 for more information.
