My Dear Parish Family,

I am going to temporarily depart from my series on The Elements of the Catholic Mass for the sake of this week’s Gospel regarding Zacchaeus. I will return to the series next time around.

St. Luke is all about showing Jesus upsetting the established order of things in order to break through with the message of His mission. Last week we heard the parables about the respectable Pharisee and the despised tax collector that went to the temple to pray. Jesus shocked His listeners when He declared who went home justified and who did not! In this week’s Gospel, Jesus takes it to the next level. The tax collector is not mythical but real and he has a name, Zacchaeus. Ironically his name means pure, clean and just – a parody that would not be lost on His listeners when He declared who went home justified and who did not! In this week’s Gospel, Jesus takes it to the next level. The tax collector is not mythical but real and he has a name, Zacchaeus. Ironically his name means pure, clean and just – a parody that would not be lost on the crowd. Furthermore, Zacchaeus is the chief tax collector which means he excelled and ripping off his own people on behalf of the Romans for the purpose of filling his own pockets. He was good at it because we are told he was a “wealthy man.”

It is hardly becoming for this wealthy short man to climb a sycamore tree, yet it is there that he encounters Jesus. What would motivate such a man who had all the things money could buy to make of himself such a fool? I think it was the realization that his money owned him and he was looking for a way out of his enslavement to ill-gotten gains, mammon. Jesus recognizes this first step of conversion and opens the door, “Zacchaeus, come down from there for today I must stay at your house.” Zacchaeus seizes the opportunity and makes ready to welcomes Jesus. The crowd is “scandalized” because Jesus would stoop to give this traitor even the time of day.

What happens next is the evidence that this chief tax collector has had a true, life-changing encounter with Jesus – he commits to depart with any and all of his ill-gotten gains to prove his sincerity. He has transferred his allegiance from mammon to God. For Jesus, this is a clearly a successful day for, “Today salvation has come to this house.” After all, Our Lord’s mission was to “come to seek and to save what was lost,” and He has just won over a guy who was very lost.

Making this gospel our own, we must ask ourselves, how foolish am I willing to appear in order to get a better look at Jesus? Zacchaeus was “vertically challenged” but that did not prevent him from getting a better perspective on Jesus. Do I have an excuse I like to use that prevents me from seeking a closer encounter with Jesus? Does my pride make me hesitate to consider myself “lost?” This message teaches us it is better to be humble, admit we are lost and then found by Jesus than to be proud and miss the encounter with Him.

Peace of Christ,
Deacon Bruce
