My Dear Parish Family:

In last week’s Gospel, we heard the beautiful Sermon on the Mount where Jesus gave us the substance of what should encompass the life of every Christian in his teaching of the Beatitudes. This week Jesus continues his Sermon on the Mount and, using very specific metaphors, explains how we can live our lives as his ardent followers.

Jesus calls you and I to be salt for the earth and light for the world. For most of us that can be an expectation that seems beyond our means. But, it’s really not; this is our mission. When we think of salt, most likely taste comes to mind; it’s flavor, the saltiness and how it enhances the foods we eat. Salt is also a preservative. When there was no refrigeration, salt was used to preserve meats and other foods. Jesus calls us to be “salt of the earth,” to enhance the flavor of life on this earth. Jesus calls to be “light of the world,” a shining presence amid darkness.

When we read the lives of the saints it seems almost impossible to reach the high bar set before us. But who set that high bar? Certainly not Jesus; we did. The saints struggled, they suffered, they were sinners, and some worked hard and long to give themselves to Christ. Many have been declared saints by the Church, others are saints but are known only to those whose lives were touched by their light and enhanced by their presence.

How do people know that we are children of God, working for Him and His kingdom? Do people recognize Christ just by looking at us and the way we live? Saint Teresa of Calcutta said, “Our work is Christ's work, and so we have to be his instruments, to carry out our small task and to disappear. A Missionary of Charity is a messenger of God's love, a living lamp that offers its light to all.” We are all missionaries, if we choose to follow Christ and live the Beatitudes. We don’t have to aim to the highest bar, expecting to be another Saint Teresa of Calcutta. Although, we can be a messenger of God’s love to a neighbor, co-worker, classmate, family, stranger, to one whose heart is darkened due to illness, loneliness, or the loss of someone dear, or a witness to a young couple struggling with an unwanted pregnancy. Saint Teresa did not preach about Jesus Christ very often. Her life was the best speech, because she lived in a way drawn to Christ. When she said, “Those who see us will see Christ in us,” she meant it.

Each one of us has been chosen, no one is left out. We carry within us the “city on a mountain” that must be seen and heard. When we live the Beatitudes and execute the Corporal and Spiritual Works of Mercy (feed the hungry, clothe the naked, console those who mourn), we become the salt of the earth, to enhance the flavor of life on this earth. Jesus calls to be “light of the world,” a shining presence amid darkness.

I am but an instrument of your will,
A tool of your peace, a conduit of your love, my God.
Bring me always to the place of need,
And point me always in the direction of your desire.
Be with me, God, as you were with your Son,
And let the love of Jesus Christ shine through me.

Amen.

In Christ,
Anne De Marco
Pastoral Minister

Catholic Charities 2017 Annual Appeal

YOU DID IT FOR ME.

Next weekend, February 11th-12th, will be the in-pew appeal during all Masses.

We are never far from a neighbor who needs our love – the poor and needy, the hungry and homeless, people who are sick, drug addicts, the unemployed, and others who are marginalized by society. When we serve those who are the “least among us,” we serve Christ.

Catholic Charities 2017 Annual Appeal invites us to consider God’s gracious love for us and, in turn, our love for our neighbors in need. God’s grace allows us to recognize the face of Christ in others and to serve them with love. Please Pray for the Good Work of Catholic Charities and Make a Pledge Today.
