My Dear Parish Family:

As a child I remember just about every Sunday afternoon a gathering of family and friends at our home enjoying long discussions, good food and much laughter. My parents never considered the visitors as “guests”. Their relationship was built upon many years of sharing joys and sorrows together both in their village in Italy and in Cleveland; they were family. My parents were never too busy or preoccupied to welcome them. Whatever may have been planned was put aside to spend a special afternoon with special people.

Could this be what our relationship with Jesus could and should be? To welcome Jesus in the people He places in our path is not a coincidence. God often sends people into our lives who, for reasons only He knows, could bring us closer to Him, whether the encounter is immediately friendly or difficult, how we open or close our hearts to the stranger, we do the same to Our Father through His Son Jesus Christ.

Jesus tells us to pick up our cross, but how can we recognize His saving Grace through the cross if our focus is on following the secular world of materialism, status, and self-preservation? Saint Paul tells us in his letter to the Romans, that we are baptized into the very person of Christ, into His death; we share in His Passion, Death, and Resurrection. We, who have been immersed into the waters of Baptism, have been thrust into Christ. This is our reward: Jesus, who will not die again, has made us one with Him. Saint Paul tells us in the last line of his letter, that we must consider ourselves “dead to sin, but alive for God in Christ Jesus.” Many of us were infants when we were baptized and have no recollection of this great sacrament. For this reason, it’s important to know about the sacraments, their purpose and meaning. What really happens to us is so very real through the actions of the Holy Spirit through the Priest. The gifts of the Spirit give us the strength and courage for each one of us to pick up our cross and follow Him, and also graces us with the humility to recognize that it is God who is the center of our being, not ourselves or our possessions.

The woman in today’s first reading extended herself beyond what one would expect as being hospitable; she gave the prophet Elisha his own room. I remember that whenever a stranger was in the mix of friends and family, my mother always seemed to give that person special attention, hoping to make him or her feel welcome – welcome into her home.

In realizing and accepting the gifts we’ve been given, our relationship with Jesus can become more intimate. Just as family and friends made time for one another, sharing their most precious moments together, perhaps we can make ourselves ready to invite and welcome our Lord into the home of our hearts and just be with him. He wants to come to us, not just on a Sunday afternoon, but every day – every moment. He will come if we make time for Him.

In Christ,

Anne De Marco
Pastoral Minister
