Dear Parish Family,

As we celebrate this 11th Sunday in Ordinary Time, we also celebrate Father's Day this weekend. Our scriptures remind us of the Providential care of God the Father, using imagery of plants growing in the field through ways in which human persons cannot fully comprehend. Since the time our Lord spoke those parables to the people, science has unlocked many of the secrets on how this actually works, but not the first cause, which our faith ascribes to God's creation.

The point is that our Providential God and Father cares for us and provides the growth for us, both physically and spiritually. It is important that we acknowledge this and are grateful. Likewise, our earthly fathers have the vocation of providing for the growth of their families, physically and spiritually. It is important that they acknowledge this and take this responsibility seriously. Today, we honor them for doing so. We also encourage them to continue to be zealous in their roles as Christian husbands and fathers.

Taking St. Joseph as their model, Christian fathers come to understand that God will provide them every grace necessary to carry out this responsibility in caring for their families. It is an important and unique role and one that is necessary. Likewise, the role of mothers is unique and necessary. While each has its specific qualities and responsibilities, these work in unison and complement each other to form the Christian family. At the core is the love for God and the sacrificial love of husbands and wives for each other, which continually grows and strengthens.

The nuptial blessing at marriages expresses most beautifully the role of the Christian husband and father as the prayer over the married couple states:

May her husband entrust his heart to her, so that, acknowledging her as his equal and his joint heir to the life of grace, he may show her due honor and cherish her always with the love that Christ has for his Church. (Excerpt from Rite of Marriage)

In this, the husband receives a special grace to love his wife and children as Christ does the Church, caring for her and laying down his life for her. By living this witness of faith, Christian fathers help their children grow into mature adults who are prepared to accept the responsibility for their own vocations. In doing so, fathers themselves grow in holiness and virtue and provide for the well-being of their families.

Therefore, let us continue to pray for and support our Christian husbands and fathers in their vocations. It is of vital importance to the life of the Church that these be lived out well and in conformity with the will of God. Under the guidance, intercession and protection of St. Joseph, may our fathers fulfill their responsibilities and enrich the life of the Church.

In Christ,
Fr. Joe Previte

Happy
Father's Day!
