Back to School Supplies Monetary Donation for the Saint Vincent de Paul Society
This year, we are seeking monetary donations to be used by the Saint Vincent de Paul Society for their back-to-school supply drive. Instead of taking a trip to the store, all you’ll need to do is place some cash in one of the collection envelopes available by the church exits and the shopping will be done for you. Each year, the St. Vincent De Paul Society hosts this collection. Your gift of only $17.00 enables them to provide a complete back-to-school supply kit for one child. Please make a generous donation in any amount and return the envelope in the offertory collection on Sunday, July 21st or drop off at the Parish Office by Monday, July 22nd. Thank you in advance for your generosity.

† Rest in Peace †
Mae Casey
Dear Parish Family,

We continue to read from Luke’s gospel and this week presents us with the story of Martha and Mary, the two sisters who welcome Jesus as a guest during His travels. While Martha is busy providing hospitality to her guest, Mary sits at His feet, listening to His words. Mary, exasperated that she is doing all the work of hospitality herself commands Jesus in saying, “Tell her to help me.” The Lord takes the opportunity, as He usually does, to make this a teachable moment in reminding Martha not to be anxious with so much that she forgets the one thing that is necessary – hearing and acting on the Word of God.

This story follows the parable of the Good Samaritan that we heard last week, often considered a companion piece. Luke continues the teaching of the Lord regarding the scholar’s questions to Him. To love God with our whole being and our neighbor as ourselves is not simply an intellectual exercise; rather, it requires both contemplation and action. Mary chooses the better part, which is not the only part. Listening to the Word is better because it is that which sustains us and, as we know from John’s gospel, prunes us to bear more fruit. Once we incorporate the Word into our hearts and lives, we choose to love God with the whole of our lives. This bears fruit in our good works of service – what Martha is doing. Unfortunately, Martha’s service distracts her and she forgets the point of why she is doing it.

These stories teach us lessons as well – lessons of discipleship. The Good Samaritan reminds us that our neighbor is anyone in need. We help them by giving of what we ourselves have received through God’s providence. Martha and Mary remind us to welcome Christ always but that we always choose the better part – listening and reflecting on the Word so it becomes part of us and stirs us to service in some way. This love of God and neighbor stirs Abraham in our reading from Genesis to offer hospitality to his three guests. Abraham is at peace and joyfully provides for their needs. There is no anxiety regarding his actions. This is an interesting contrast to Martha. Keep in mind that Jesus does not condemn Martha’s service as inappropriate. Rather, he wants her to find peace and joy in providing it and understanding why she does so – the better part.

As disciples continuing to grow in our love for God and neighbor, perhaps we can reflect on our own acts of service – to our families, our neighbors, and our parish community. Are these done in peace and joy because our motivation is love of God and neighbor? Do they make us anxious and seem more of an obligation or burden? If the latter, then perhaps that is a sign of our need to seek the better part and incorporate the Word into our lives in a deeper way. Once we do, we can experience the joy and peace of living the gospel each day.

In Christ,
Fr. Joe Previte
