Dear Parish Family,

This weekend’s scriptures remind us to refocus our priorities on what really matters – our eternal destiny! Jesus calls us to be rich in what matters to God. So, what matters to God? If we reflect on the gospel for the prior three Sundays, we clearly understand what is important to God. What matters is to love God with our whole being and our neighbor as ourselves.

That was the point of the story of the Good Samaritan; he chose to love God by caring for someone he did not even know because it was the right thing to do. He did not focus on the cost. While Martha was anxious about all sorts of worldly things, Mary chose the better part, listening to Jesus. The point is that is what heaven will be – no worries about things to do, but perpetual joy in the Presence of God. In asking Jesus to teach them to pray, the disciples learned that God desires to give good things to them (and us) if we ask out of love of God.

Continuing to read from Luke’s Gospel, despite all Jesus presents, someone in the crowd did not get it and asks Jesus to be an arbiter. Jesus uses another parable to remind them that chasing after worldly things is not important. That does not matter to God. It is all vanity as we hear in Ecclesiastes. Any time we do things merely for ourselves it is all vanity, it is worthless. The point is that our call to holiness necessitates that we do everything for God!

This past week we celebrated the Memorial of St. Ignatius of Loyola, whose spiritual writings have been a treasure and used by many, especially his discernment of spirits. As founder of the Jesuit order, he established their motto:

Ad maiorem Dei gloriam inque hominum salutem or “for the greater glory of God and the salvation of humanity.”

This motto summarizes a belief that any good work consciously performed to give glory to God, can benefit someone spiritually, no matter how inconsequential that work may be.

That is what matters to God. That all we do is done out love for God and neighbor. All else is vanity. Therefore, if we do anything merely for our own gain, our own pride, our own recognition then we are not doing for the greater glory of God. We are only storing treasure for ourselves.

Let us pray then, that we have the courage to refocus our priorities, if necessary, and consider how all we do gives greater glory to God. Then we store up riches for what really matters.

In Christ,
Fr. Joe Previte
