Sunday After The Most Holy Trinity

The Most Holy Body & Blood of Christ

(Corpus Christi)

Solemnity

A Meal Like No Other

Today we celebrate Corpus Christi, the Solemnity of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ. In the Eucharistic feast, the gifts of bread and wine really and truly become the Body, Blood, Soul and Divinity of Christ. Through this covenant of love, God draws us into his divine life and offers us food for our earthly pilgrimage to continue with faith and hope, confident in God's ability to transform our weakness and sufferings into life and joy.

This Is My Body and My Blood

The Solemnity we celebrate today challenges us to consider our sharing in the Body and Blood of Christ as our number-one, all-time favorite repast. Sacrificial though it is, in its remembrance of the death of Jesus, this feast also affirms the gift of Jesus in the form of bread and wine as authentic and necessary food.

In the Hebrew tradition food was God's life-sustaining gift, so sharing food with others was tantamount to sharing God's life together. Eating together and sharing God's gift of life created a bond that you would protect at all costs. Because it was so central, the sharing of food was readily incorporated into religious rituals. The Sinai Covenant was sealed with the sacrifice of an animal, whose blood was sprinkled on the altar (symbolizing God) and on the gathered people. Then all shared a meal, thus binding God and his people together for life.

In the same vein we understand that the saving sacrificial death of Jesus forged a new covenant between God and us. By virtue of the blood Jesus poured forth in love and by Jesus' passage from death to life, we have been graced and empowered to pass from slavery to sin and into freedom, into a new and unending relationship.
