Ordinary Time

Twenty-seventh Sunday

No Longer Two, But One

This Sunday's Gospel relates Jesus' position on divorce. Jesus suggests that divorce corresponds to a stage of human development marked by the weakness resulting from sin. With his coming, the messianic times, people must resolutely go back to the primordial purity of marriage and to the creator's intention: "Therefore what God has joined together, no human being must separate."

Flowers for the Altar this weekend, are donated by Denise Greive & Family.

REFLECTION

Genesis 2:18-24 Psalm 128 Hebrews 2:9-11
Mark 10:2-16

Jesus is put to the test by the religious authorities about divorce. In response he takes them back to the foundations of their faith. When questioned, Jesus frequently turns the tables, posing questions to those who ask questions. Here, what begins as a legal question about divorce becomes an issue about all human relationships and responsibilities.

The creation accounts in Genesis provide the setting for Jesus' teaching. The relationship between humanity and God is a fundamental aspect of creation and not merely a social convention regulated by law.

In those days divorce was all too often an irresponsible male action against a woman, it left the wife and children destitute. Divorce was essentially an act of injustice against women. In criticizing divorce, Jesus called into question the current understanding of the marriage union. Jesus said that this union was meant to reflect the permanent union of God and human beings intended from the beginning and not just a social convention that men should cast off at will. Jesus called men to their responsibilities to women and children with their marriages.

God's relationship to creatures is primarily one of faithfulness. The stories of the Bible are so often about this relationship and about the deadly results of breaking faith from God and with one another. To those committed to faithfulness for example in marriage – breaking faith is no small matter. Creation is charged with the presence of God, and as part of creation people are called to responsibility. In Bible terms, this relationship of responsibility is called a covenant, a relationship characterized by love, mercy and forgiveness and by a legal contract.

RESPECT LIFE SUNDAY

Respect Life Sunday is celebrated today. The purpose is to raise consciousness and provide resources on various issues that affect the dignity of human life from conception to natural death.

We pray for – and renew our resolve to bring about – a culture of life and an end to the killing of innocent human beings, especially those who are vulnerable due to age, size, health or dependency.

The Sacrament of Marriage

The tone is set today with the two familiar readings: Adam and Eve becoming one flesh and Jesus' lesson on the permanence of marriage. No matter when is the anniversary of your wedding, celebrate your sacred togetherness. Make time this week to talk and pray together about where God is leading you in your marriage. Enjoy the affection, romance, and playfulness God has graced you with; and also feed the friendship, cultivate the spiritual companionship, and listen compassionately to each other's hearts, just as Christ is listening and caring for your shared heart.
