A note from Fr. Olvera... Dear parishioners. Let me start by thanking all of you for your cards, support, and prayers throughout these past six weeks. I assure you that it was your prayers that got me through it all. From the surgery came some unexpected set-backs. Having said that, I’m not fully mended, but I’m getting there. I may look fine, but I still lack strength and energy. Standing and long conversations are difficult, my hands may shake, and my movements may be slower than normal, but all will heal in due time. Until my stamina returns, other than the sacraments, I’ll be limiting what extra things I can do until after the first of the year. I appreciate your understanding in all this as my body continues to heal. Lastly, I’d like to thank Fr. Hammond and Fr. Blubaugh for their assistance in my absence. They have gone beyond the call of duty to assist with my needs and I am forever grateful for their assistance. God bless you all, and I look forward to seeing you when I return.

In Christ, + Fr. Olvera

Catechism of the Catholic Church 546: Jesus’ invitation to enter his kingdom comes in the form of parables, a characteristic feature of his teaching. Through his parables he invites people to the feast of the kingdom, but he also asks for a radical choice: to gain the kingdom, one must give everything. Words are not enough; deeds are required. The parables are like mirrors for man: will he be hard soil or good earth for the word? What use has he made of the talents he has received? Jesus and the presence of the kingdom in this world are secretly at the heart of the parables. One must enter the kingdom, that is, become a disciple of Christ, in order to “know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven.” For those who stay “outside,” everything remains enigmatic.
