Thirty-Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Eighty years later, Hitler is STILL the number one best-selling topic in book sales. I admit I can never get enough of the horrible Nazis. Immersing myself in the lives of those who died in the camps fills me with a bone-deep gratitude for my warm house, with warm food, and my warm spouse, who is here with me instead of parachuting behind enemy lines somewhere in Europe, 1943.

“It is better to do evil than to BE evil,” Dietrich Bonhoeffer famously said, explaining why he, a beloved Lutheran minister, could take part in an assassination attempt. He could justify doing wrong for the greater good of ridding the world of Hitler, but, conversely, would NOT justify doing wrong---saluting, or taking an oath of fidelity to the Reich---for the “greater good” of keeping his church open during the war.

I’ll bet that, during the first religious persecution in history, people urged the Maccabee brothers and their mother to just go along to get along. Eat their stupid pork, they begged. Try not to notice there is a statue of the emperor on the altar in the Temple, they pleaded. But the Maccabees wouldn’t accommodate, and so they died horrible deaths.

There are many things today we are expected to “accommodate” in order not to rock the boat. I have some friends who will endure listening to racism and ignorance in order to “keep the peace” at Thanksgiving dinner. I have other friends for whom the pro-choice position of some family members makes holding their tongues impossibly painful.

I’m inspired by the martyrs, from afar. I choose not to be one. Please pass the gravy.

Have you ever endured the fallout from doing the right thing?

Trigésimo Segundo Domingo de Tiempo Ordinario

Ya han transcurrido ochenta años y Hitler TODAVÍA es el tema número uno en ventas de libros. Debo admitir que yo tampoco me canso de escuchar las historias de los terribles Nazis. Al adentrarme en las vidas de aquellos que murieron en los campos de concentración siento una inmensa gratitud por mi casa calentita, con comida caliente y mi cálido esposo, quien está a mi lado en lugar de estar aventándose en paracaídas tras líneas enemigas en algún lugar de Europa, 1943.

“Es mejor hacer maldad que SER malvado,” fue una línea famosa dicha por Dietrich Boenhoeffer, explicando por que él, un amado ministro luterano, pudo participar en un atentado de asesinato. Pudo justificarse de haber hecho mal por el bien común de sacar a Hitler del mundo, pero, por el contrario, NO se justificó de hacer el mal—saludar la bandera, o jurar lealtad al Tercer Reich—por el “bien común” de mantener su iglesia abierta durante la guerra.

Apuesto a que, durante la primera persecución religiosa de la historia, la gente les insistía a los hermanos Maccabee y a su madre que siguieran la corriente para que los dejaran tranquilos. Cómanse el maldito puerco, les rogaban. Traten de ignorar el hecho que hay una estatua del emperador en el altar del Templo, les suplicaban. Pero los Maccabees no se doblegaron y por consecuencia sufrieron muertes horribles.

Hay muchas cosas a las que hoy se espera que nos “dobleguemos” para no alborotar el gallinero. Tengo amigos que soportan escuchar cosas racistas e ignorantes para poder mantener la conversación “placentera” en la cena de Thanksgiving. Tengo otros amigos que con mucho dolor se muerden la lengua ante las posiciones pro elección de algunos miembros de sus familias.

Me inspiran los mártires. Año tras año, elijo no ser una de ellos. Por favor pásenme el aderezo para las papas.

¿Alguna vez has pagado el precio por hacer lo correcto?

GOSPEL

“Some Saducees, those who deny that there is a resurrection, came forward and put this question to Jesus ...” In this Sunday’s Gospel, the Saducees avoid their real question. Is there a resurrection from the dead or not? Rather than ask this question point blank, the Saducees try to prove their point through a roundabout, unrealistic scenario. Jesus cuts straight to the question behind the question, citing Scripture passages relating to the resurrection. The Saducees are trying to trick Jesus. While we may not intend to stump God, our doubts and questions may have more in common with the Saducees than we care to admit. Doubts are part and parcel of life in a fallen world. Still, there are different ways we can word our doubts to ourselves, God, and others. When we’re struggling, truly struggling, about some article of faith, do we admit it? Or do we cloak it with other, obtuse questions to hide the nature of our concern? Have you considered leaving the Church over the hypocrisy of some of her members and leaders? Perhaps the real question is: “How can a place blessed by God and instituted by Christ have this evil in it? Can I reconcile with the concept that an institution has an admixture of good and bad? What do I expect from others, from myself? What responsibility do I have to try and remedy evil in an institution I’m part of?” Perhaps you’ve wondered about the nature of romantic love, and if God is love, does He really care so much about the details of this particular scenario? Perhaps the real question is: “Can my mind wrap around the concept of a God whose law seems — on the surface, in this situation — to make people unhappy? What is the relationship between the moral law and human flourishing?” These aren’t easy questions, but they are more honest ones. This week, don’t be afraid of your deeper questions. Bring them to God, to someone you trust, and to yourself. We do have flaws, after all. We are the sinner in need of mercy. This Sunday, will we humble ourselves enough to ask for it?

Questions of the Week

First Reading
 Second Maccabees is one of the earliest writings assuring us that those who suffer for the faith will be raised from the dead. Why do you think martyrdom remains a reality today for many believers around the world?
 Second Reading
 Paul asks the Thessalonians to pray for him, Silvanus, and Timothy to be delivered from people who would do them harm. What would you like your faith community to pray about for you?
 Gospel Reading
 The Sadducees attempted to trap Jesus with a seeming riddle about the resurrection of the dead. How do deal with non-believers who challenge what you believe?

LIVE THE LITURGY

Our God is a God of the living. In God, there is no death. While life certainly presents hardships and has its measure of suffering, God does not promise anyone, not even his own Son, a way around it. What He does promise is His abiding, all-sustaining presence as a source of courage and hope so that we can more gracefully and purposefully endure it. Our faith in the Gospel message of Jesus Christ reminds us to carry the hope of resurrection with us in all things. We must never lose sight of the fact that we are works in progress and that what we see and experience here is only the beginning of greater marvels to come. This is why people like St. Paul and others of great faith consider their sufferings as nothing compared to the glory yet to be revealed.

St Rose of Lima Youth Group "Youth of the Rose" is hosting today a breakfast in the Rose Hall (Community Room) to fundraise money for their next retreats.

Please come to enjoy some delicious bacon, eggs, pancakes, and coffee. We will appreciate very much all your support. God Bless.

Please contact the parish office if you wish to request a Mass intention, or if you would like to put someone on our prayer list.

MEDITACIÓN DEL EVANGÉLIO

En este domingo, la Iglesia comienza a enfocarse en el final de los tiempos y en la segunda venida de Cristo. Las lecturas aseguran que la esperanza debe estar en la vida, que es Cristo. La muerte es inevitable; todos pasaremos por ella. El trauma de perder a un ser querido es palpable. El dolor nos hace sentir la presencia del ser amado más fuertemente. Esa sensación de presencia se siente en lo profundo del corazón, no tan solo del ser amado, sino de Jesús mismo que es la resurrección y la vida. La resurrección no es mera fantasía, es por seguro una divina presencia.

El Evangelio nos enseña que existe la vida después de la muerte. Jesús dijo a los saduceos: "Él no es Dios de muertos, sino de vivos, y todos viven por él." (Lucas 20:38). Ahora, ¿Qué se piensa de la muerte? ¿Qué crees tú sobre la muerte en las circunstancias que vive la sociedad? El Papa Francisco nos ayuda con la siguiente reflexión:

Así es la esperanza cristiana: tener la certeza que yo estoy en camino hacia algo que es, no que yo quiero que sea. Esta es la esperanza cristiana. La esperanza cristiana es la espera de algo que ya ha sido cumplido y que realmente se realizara para cada uno de nosotros. También nuestra resurrección y la de los seres queridos difuntos, por tanto, no es algo que podrá suceder o no, sino no es una realidad cierta, en cuanto está enraizada en el evento de la resurrección de Cristo. Esperar por tanto significa aprender a vivir en la espera.
