The United States Conference of Catholic Bishops—will conduct its fall meeting November 12 - 15, 2018. Most of the agenda will address the clergy sexual abuse scandal. Please pray for the bishops that they be led by the Holy Spirit during their discussions and deliberations to the decisions they need to make for the benefit of God’s people.

Autumnal Glory—I missed it for several days, maybe over a couple of weeks. It was right across the street from where I live. Three trees that somehow escaped the effects of the rain and sunless, cold days over a month’s time, displayed not dulled, colored leaves, but their autumnal glory. One day, when I saw the sun shining on the arboreal trio, I was delighted by the rich colors and hues of red and gold that I beheld. Finally, there was autumn again!

Nature leads me to metaphors. The dark days of autumn hid the real glory of the trees. They displayed the color I described even without the sun, but it was less noticeable. We’ve had dim to dark days in our Church with the clergy sexual abuse scandal. Late summer and early fall was not gracious nationally as the Justice Kavanaugh senate hearings imposed themselves and shocked our nation. The incivility of discourse in our country and its polarization presents the norm of shouting and name calling to posture and govern. Labeling and condemnation abounds rather than acting according to the common good to find common ground and to settle differences. The light has dimmed in our great land.

Yet in these circumstances, we don’t notice the glorious color in the trees, meaning metaphorically, that we can act differently, with virtue and civility motivated by the common good that our faith supports and encourages. Followers of Jesus certainly have a voice, but not that which emanates from the cacophony of chaos, confusion, lawlessness, calumny and derision. This is not of God or the order in the world he has established. We have a voice that is informed, taught and inspired by the One who is Love and Light in the world. Jesus shines and speaks in our midst whether we notice him or not. He speaks within us and shines the light of the Truth and his love upon us. We are those trees whose leaves of red and gold are illumined by the Light. The red is His Precious Blood, the sacrifice that unites us all through his cross and the golden glory of his resurrection. This is who we are, a people saved by Jesus’ blood and raised up by his resurrection.

That may sound too theological, an exercise of the imagination or a figure of speech. But, it really isn’t. We look for signs of God and those which point us to God, and they are with us. Those saved by Christ aspire to become like him. That’s harder than shouting at people we don’t like or with whom we disagree or labeling them with viscerally negative emotions. It is more challenging to be civil when incivilities normatively abound. But, we can do better. You are light to the world, Jesus said. Be inspired by how St. Paul wrote about the problems of the early Church communities. They weren’t so nice to each other as well. Rely upon the Spirit and be as meek as doves and as clever as fox, as Jesus taught. The Light is in you and shines upon you. Show your true colors, the red and the gold, by acting, leading and speaking by your faith. It may be like walking through a narrow gate, but that is how society is built.

Out of the Office—I will be away on retreat from November 12 - 20, 2018, inclusive. Please keep me in your prayers as I will do for you.
