Epiphany Sunday each year brings special readings, signifying the arrival of the Three Kings to the Baby Jesus. For centuries, Christians have had the opportunity to reflect upon the significance of Jesus' birth for our salvation. This Sunday also comes after New Year's when we have made our resolutions. Below are 8 resolutions, or resolution themes, that I came across through the National Catholic Reporter. Coming off a week of being sick at home, I had lots of quiet reflection that made the below article come to life.

1. Slow down. Self-care is challenging amid the busyness of modern life. Trappist monk Thomas Merton recognized the detrimental effects of our chronic busyness, writing that "to allow oneself to be carried away by a multitude of conflicting concerns, to surrender to too many demands, to commit oneself to too many projects, to want to help everyone in everything is to succumb to violence."

2. Turn off the screen — or at least be intentional about technology use. How many hours do you spend scrolling through Facebook, lamenting TV headlines, or simply Internet surfing? While technology has innumerable benefits, every hour in front of a screen also dumps a flood of external input into your life. Setting guidelines for the amount of time we use media is a valuable first step.

3. Get back in your body. A felt sense of connectedness to one's physical self is vital to our health and well-being. Whether it's yoga, swimming, walking the dog, or anything else, choose a body-centered activity that you love. Do you enjoy this activity on your own? Or is it helpful to have a class, a regular group or a scheduled event to get you out the door? Explore what works best for you and integrate this commitment into your week.

4. Reconnect with the natural world. Author Charles Cook writes, "Your deepest roots are in nature. No matter who you are, where you live, or what kind of life you lead, you remain irrevocably linked with the rest of creation." Practice savoring your connection with creation. Especially with the ecological crises facing our planet, our nature reconnection is more vital than ever.

5. Seek out an adventure. It doesn't matter if you travel abroad or plan a staycation; try something new — anything! A spontaneous road trip, quirky restaurant, local theater venue or new hobby: Infuse a sense of adventure into your life. Trek off the beaten path of your daily routine to try out new, enriching experiences in your community.

6. "Spark joy." International best-selling author and organizing consultant Marie Kondo offers this mantra in her now-famous book, The Life-Changing Magic of Tidying Up. Kondo's creative, even transformative approach to the traditional "spring cleaning" process encourages us to reflect on our relationship with our possessions and whether they truly "spark joy" within us. Sensing joy with that item? Keep it. No joy? Let it go.

7. Cultivate relationships. Ultimately, isn't this what life is all about? Reflect on your relationships with family, friends, colleagues, neighbors, parishioners and your local community. What relationships could use some extra TLC?

8. Nurture your relationship with God. Just as we dedicate time to building our relationships with other people, our inner spiritual life also deserves a similar commitment. Whether it's reading Scripture, or any other kind of contemplative practice, choose a specific time to tune into God each day. The rest of your life, and the start of 2018, will be richer for it.

The Epiphany of the Lord
GOD'S PROMISE TO ALL PEOPLE

Today Isaiah reminds the people of God that the land shall be restored to their possession, they shall rejoice to see their people return from the bondage of exile, and that they shall be a light to the nations. In other words, through the people of Israel, the Savior shall come to all people who seek God with a sincere heart. This brings joy and the radiance of God's glory to all the world and to all people everywhere. Through the fidelity of the people of God, and through God's fidelity to them, all people shall become God's children and rejoice in the fulfillment of God's promise to Israel.

FAITH FORMATION

Deacon Ron Kenney, Director of Faith Formation
Tel: 810-636-2216 E-mail: stmarkdff@hotmail.com

Today is the feast of Epiphany, the tradition of Scripture and our faith that the child Jesus was visited by 3 Wise men, Magi, or Astrologers as they have been known. Regardless of what their vocation, they came from afar and were of different cultural backgrounds. They came to pay homage and honor to this child who they knew was like no other.

Today's message is really all about inclusion and that all people belong. No one is to be excluded from Christ. What St. Paul says in Scripture about the gentiles refers to all people of all backgrounds, experiences and orientation. We are all co-heirs, members of the same body, and co-partners in the same promise of Christ Jesus through the gospel.

I get tired of people using religion as an excuse to look down on other people. And I am frustrated at the times that I have done this myself. The Solemnity of the Epiphany teaches us this: there is no US and THEM in Jesus Christ. There is only an US, an US that includes all people, everywhere, all the time. Happy Epiphany, Happy open hearts and minds to all.
