9- Seventh Sunday of Easter : Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

It's even on our money. I refer to that famous 13 letter motto of our country "e pluribus unum," that is "out of many, one." Adopted by Congress in 1782, it originates out of the union of the original 13 colonies that emerged as a single nation. In the current tension in our country over how to handle immigration, along with heated debate on the matter, that motto hangs over us as a caution and a check on anything resembling prejudice, exclusivity or even hate. It's sad to realize that any rancor ignores the fact that we ourselves are descended from immigrants. But long before there ever was a United States, we learn from the Bible that unity among us is the prime desire of our very Creator. This infers that diversity is far from an obstacle to unity, but is rather something that enriches it. After all, Jesus died on the cross for the salvation of the whole human race, and not just a segment of it. When He rose from the dead, it was, at the very least, an endorsement from on high that everything He said and did was in accord with the divine plan. In other words, He was authentic. He was and is the Son of God, the Second Person of the divine Trinity. Attention must be paid to Him. Remember that at His baptism and transfiguration, the Father's voice is heard commanding us to "Listen to Him." We must approach the subject of our unity with the realization that it takes work. It takes courage. It may cost us our lives, in one way or another. We learn today that for St. Stephen, the first martyr of our Church, the cost was literally his life. Surrounded as we are right now in our country by such an atmosphere of disunity, that we might conclude that this is the norm. We take it almost for granted that there always will be a certain divide between "us" and "them." Ah, but then we forget that through Christ, our God has entered into human history. This is the basic fact of Christmas, stripped of its jingle bells and tinsel. But if "gospel" means "good news" there is always a positive lesson present, even if we sometimes have to dig deep into the text, and our own powers of reflection to find it. In this instance of pondering unity with all its inherent difficulty, we have the words of the angel Gabriel to Mary: "Nothing is impossible for God." I always like reading that to the congregation at Christmas time because it offers them encouragement in their faith. But Easter is the proof "par excellence" that God can do all things. At each Mass, we all receive the one Body and Blood of the risen Christ. That implies that unity is such a possibility if we truly will it, because we believers can approach our task with divine energy and backing.
