Protecting Children from Sexual Harm

Education: About one in ten children will be sexually abused by the time they reach 18. They are often too confused, scared or embarrassed to report it right away, so it often continues. The perpetrators are not usually strangers to the children, but someone they trusted.(1) Child abusers often use pornography to “groom” their victims. (2)

11% of boys and 8% of girls have seen pornography before they were 10 years old. 22% of children ages 9 -16 said their top online concern was being exposed to pornography. Pornography can disrupt normal childhood development and warp a child’s attitude toward sex. Chemicals are released in the brain that cause a desire for more, so ALL children are biologically wired to be interested and affected by nudity and sex. (3) Sexually active teens and young adults are at higher risk for acquiring sexually transmitted infections (STIs), due to a combination of behavioral, biological, and cultural factors. Though they make up 25% of the sexually active population, they account for nearly half of new STI cases. (4) The U. S. continues to have among the highest teen pregnancy, birth, and abortion rates in the developed world. (4)

So how can you protect your children from abuse, pornography, and early sex? There are several resources that can help parents to teach their children about private body parts, boundaries, pornography, and reasons to delay sexual activity. Christian Voices for Life has developed a Parent Resource Guide to inform parents of these important and very helpful resources.

1. “A Parent’s Guide to Prevention” from <http://www.cachouston.org/sexual-abuse/tips-for-protecting-your-children>
2. “Grooming: Know the Warning Signs” from <https://www.rainn.org/news/grooming-know-warning-signs>
3. “How to Talk to Kids About Pornography” from <http://www.protectyoungminds.org/resources>
4. “Teen Sexual Activity and STDs/STIs” from www.sexualintegrityinitiative.com/resources/fact-sheets/

Prayer: Dear Jesus, please help all parents to be aware of the dangers that their children may be exposed to at school, at the homes of friends, or online. Help them to be aware of the resources available to them to protect their children from these dangers. Give them the courage and the confidence to refuse to allow any feelings of awkwardness to prevent them from acting to protect their children. Help them to use these many resources to regularly speak to their children about all kinds of important issues and develop relationships of trust and open communication in the family.

Action: Download the Parent Resource Guide and tell all the parents you know about this resource. Click here to get a copy of a postcard that was recently mailed to pediatricians and family medicine doctors in 774 ZIP codes. The card invites them to download our Parent Resource Guide and provide it to the parents of the children they see. Bring both the copy of the card and the Resource Guide to your pediatrician or family practice doctor, and ask if they remember the card. They should have received it in mid November 2020. Encourage them to make our Parent Resource Guide available to the parents in their practice.
