Summer Assignments for Students Entering Second Grade

Summer reading and math is designed to keep skills active. Research has shown that the best way to improve skills is to practice.

This year each child has received a book entitled, Kids Learn! Getting Ready for Second Grade. As part of their summer assignments your child should be working in this book. When we return to school everyone should bring their completed book back with them.

The children should read at least 5 books, keep a log of book titles and authors they read, and be prepared to share their favorite.

Additionally, children should practice their addition and subtraction facts.
